The opportunities ahead

The higher growth rate expectations are based on the likely better performance from the manufacturing emanating from strong consumer demands. In order to achieve and sustain the anticipated growth levels large investments in infrastructure development is required and the plan for investments in road, rail, air and water transport, power generation, transmission and distribution telecommunication, The planned development would entail huge investments in infrastructure, which in view of limited government resources, would be achieved by promoting public-private partnerships. The VLIL intends to be part of the country's vision of a developed nation and thus create value for the society.
